

A large, historic stone building with many windows and chimneys, likely a school or university hall, stands behind a green lawn. Two young men in white cricket uniforms are standing on the lawn, facing each other. A large, old cannon is visible on the left side of the lawn. The sky is clear and blue.

The Cricketer has championed schools cricket since the magazine was first published in 1921. This guide celebrates the finest cricketing schools in the country, each with a distinguished history of commitment to our wonderful summer game. This guide is available online and bumper-packed on the newsstand with The Cricketer.
